Programs for the primary immunodeficiency (PI) community

MylgEducation.com is where we come together to find out about educational program topics, meet the speakers, and register for upcoming dates. Let's do it! We're all in this together.

Learn. Connect. Empower.

The more you understand about living with primary immunodeficiency (PI), the better.

People living with PI may not always feel understood or heard. But your voice matters. Learn about raising awareness for PI and plasma donation. Tell your own PI story. Share in decision-making with your doctors.

What do you want to know about PI? Discover answers about your immune system, the types of PI, and why it can take so long to get a diagnosis. Find out about the importance of recording your health and get resources to help, too.

Learn practical steps for becoming your own advocate—like doing your research, talking to your doctors, tracking your health, expecting the unexpected, and more. Own your role in your healthcare. You can do it!

The world has learned a lot about coping and thriving. What works for you now? Join the community as we talk about focusing on our well-being.
